READ THIS FIRST!!

- Before installation, read the document Getting Started with Your New Products Package included with this update.
- Your new authorization key code is printed on the CD case label. Keep this authorization key code in a safe place for future reference! You will need this code to load the software update and to take advantage of our new, automated authorization process.
- You can only use your authorization key code on one machine. If you have additional DDMS servers for backup or testing purposes, you will need an authorization key code for each server. If you did not receive an authorization key code for each machine, contact DDMS Support by emailing support@eci2.com or faxing 682-831-9909.
- Read the enclosed installation instructions carefully! Important information about the new authorization process is included. There are three types of authorization: automatic Internet authorization, dial-up authorization, and manual authorization.
- Documentation is provided at www.ddms.com/products/pkgs/pkgdoc.htm, on your software update CD in the Documentation folder, and in the online help.
- You must load this software before your next O/PUS update on April 1.
- This software update includes the AutoComm™ program. If you plan to utilize AutoComm, you install it using the AutoRun menu on your software update CD.
- Unix users must receive authorization manually. Please read your installation instructions carefully.
